His Excellency, the Governor of Florida and Commander-in-Chief, Florida National Guard, Tallahassee, Florida

Sir:

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 250.10, Florida Statutes, there is submitted herewith the biennial report of The Adjutant General of Florida, pertaining to the administration of the Military Department for the calendar years 1961 and 1962.

This report has been organized into three phases—the first, a narrative report; the second, statistical data as Appendices; and the third, the Directory of the Florida National Guard as of 31 December 1962.

It is the intent of this report to provide unclassified information as pertains to the Florida National Guard to proper parties and to make of record material for historical purposes.

Respectfully yours,

HENRY W. McMILLAN

Major General, Line

The Adjutant General

MISSION

Units of the Florida National Guard, both Army and Air, have a dual mission which requires that they be organized, equipped and trained to function efficiently under competent orders of Federal or State authorities in the protection of life and property, and the preservation of peace, order and public safety.

The Federal mission of the Florida National Guard, Army and Air, as Reserve components of the Army of the United States and the Air Force of the United States, is to provide trained units and qualified individuals available for active duty in time of war or national emergency, or at such other times as the national security may require augmentation of the active forces.

SUMMARY

During this biennium, the Statewide National Guard reorganization, reflected in the preceding report, was completed. With a few minor exceptions, the troop structure of the Florida National Guard has remained unchanged during the past two years. The Florida National Guard continues to maintain its outstanding record nationally. Strengths allocated by the National Guard Bureau have been satisfactorily maintained through a continuous and effective recruiting program. The Air National Guard has continued to perform its Air Defense Alert commitment with distinction. For the second time since the post World War II reorganization, the Army National Guard assumed its Federal mission with five units answering the call to active duty during the Berlin Crisis of October 1961. With the construction of additional Armories throughout the State, and the expansion of facilities of the Air National Guard Base at Jacksonville, the overall facilities of the Florida National Guard remain comparable with the finest in the Nation. During this biennium, the high level of training attained by all Commands has been most gratifying, and each and every member of the Florida National Guard can feel proud of our national standing.

ORGANIZATION

MILITARY DEPARTMENT, STATE OF FLORIDA

There are 706 employees currently assigned to full time positions with the Military Department or elements of the Florida National Guard. Of these, 98 are civilians while the balance are members of the National Guard. All employees are classed as State employees although only 95 are paid from State funds, with 611 being paid by the Federal government. (See Appendices II and III for detailed organization.)

Organizational changes of marked significance have taken place during the biennium. Upon his inauguration as Governor on 3 January 1961, the Honorable Farris Bryant assumed command of the Florida National Guard. On 1 October 1961, command of the 51st Infantry Division was transferred from the State of South Carolina to the State of Florida, and Brigadier General Henry W. McMillan was assigned as Division Commander and promoted to Major General. On 27 April

Guard. Of these, 98 are civilians while the balance are members of the National Guard. All employees are classed as State employees although only 95 are paid from State funds, with 611 being paid by the Federal government. (See Appendices II and III for detailed organization.)

Organizational changes of marked significance have taken place during the biennium. Upon his inauguration as Governor on 3 January 1961, the Honorable Farris Bryant assumed command of the Florida National Guard. On 1 October 1961, command of the 51st Infantry Division was transferred from the State of South Carolina to the State of Florida, and Brigadier General Henry W. McMillan was assigned as Division Commander and promoted to Major General. On 27 April

1962, Major General Mark W. Lance, The Adjutant General of Florida, attained the statutory retirement age of 64 and was retired. On 28 April 1962, Major General Henry W. McMillan assumed the position of The Adjutant General of Florida, to which he had been appointed by Governor Bryant. Coincidental with this action, Colonel Robert A. Ballard was assigned as Commanding General, 51st Infantry Division and promoted to the rank of Brigadier General. On 29 July 1962, Major General Maxwell C. Snyder, Commanding General of the 48th Armored Division, retired and the command of this Division was transferred from the State of Florida to the State of Georgia. Simultaneously with this action, Colonel Louie C. Wadsworth was assigned as Assistant Division Commander of the 48th Armored Division and was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General. (For current organization of the Florida Army and Air National Guard, see Appendices I, IV, V, VI and VII.)

PROPOSED REORGANIZATION

During the latter part of calendar year 1962, the Department of Defense submitted to the Governors of the various States, a proposal for the reorganization and realignment of the National Guard of the United States. Under this proposal, the 51st Infantry Division would be eliminated and the 48th Armored Division would be completely contained within the State of Georgia. The troop allocation offered to the State of Florida would, in effect, give the National Guard of Florida a homogeneous organization contained entirely within State boundaries. It would appear that the strength would be slightly increased, both in officer and enlisted personnel. The tactical command staff would be similar to that of a Division staff.

As of the time of writing this report, the troop allocation proposed by the Department of Defense has not been accepted by the Governors of the several States. It is contemplated that this matter will be resolved during January 1963 and will be followed by a complete reorganization of the Florida Army National Guard.

BERLIN BUILD-UP

In the fall of 1961, President John F. Kennedy, faced with increasing Soviet belligerence in Berlin and a general feeling of uneasiness and unrest throughout the world, requested from Congress and was granted the authority to mobilize and order to Active Duty certain Army and Air National Guard Units of the United States together with elements of the Army Reserve of the United States to expand American fighting power in the unprecedented "Cold War."

For the third time in twenty-one years, the Florida National Guard geared itself in preparation for either a full or partial mobilization. When the order came, by direction of the President and pursuant to Public Law 87-117, four units of the Florida Army National Guard were ordered to Active Duty at 0001 hours, 1 October 1961 and one additional unit at 0001 hours, 15 October 1961. Units and personnel thereof ordered to Active Duty were:

UNIT	HOME STATION	ACTIVE DUTY STATION
138th Transportation Co (Lt Trk)	Cocoa	Ft. Benning, Ga.
149th Quartermaster Co (Petrol Depot)	West Palm Beach and Belle Glade	Ft. Lee, Va.
39th Signal Detachment (RMU)	Jacksonville	Tobyhanna Signal Depot, Penn.
379th Signal Detachment (RMU)	Camp Blanding	Tobyhanna Signal Depot, Penn.
144th Transportation Co (Lt Trk)	Marianna	Ft. Bragg, N. C.

The spirit, cooperation, and efficiency displayed by Guardsmen upon receiving the call to Active Duty were probably best portrayed in the following statement released by Secretary of The Army, Elvis J. Stahr, Jr., in November 1961:

"I have observed with deep pride and satisfaction the efficient manner in which reserve component units have been brought into the Active Army during the current expansion.

"The orderly execution of this difficult operation is attributable to outstanding teamwork among the Army National Guard, the Army Reserve, the Adjutants General of the several States, and the Active Army. It clearly reflects the quality of Army mobilization planning, the fundamental soundness of our reserve structure, and firm and farsighted military leadership at all levels.

"I want to say, further, that I have sincerest admiration for the spirit in which the officers and men of units summoned to service responded to the call to duty. Their sense of purpose and selfless dedication to mission establish high standards for the Nation as a whole in these critical times.

"It has again been shown that our 'One-Army' is entitled to the fullest confidence of the American people as a powerful and ready guardian of the Nation's security."

Although it was only a small and partial mobilization, the citizen-soldiers called to Active Duty during what we now know as the "Berlin Crisis" performed their missions well and their combat readiness, by far, influenced the enemy's future decisions and actions. During the period of time the citizen-soldiers remained on Active Duty, the active Army was able to build its strength to meet present world conditions, and in August, 1962, all Reserve Component units called to Active Duty in the fall of 1961 were released to State control. The training and experience they received on Active Duty have prepared them much better for any future emergency and the citizenry of the State of Florida may well be proud of the part the men of the Florida Army National Guard played in the "Berlin Crisis."

CUBAN CRISIS

Upon the establishment of the blockade of Cuba by the President and the resulting military build up of Federal forces in the State of Florida, the Headquarters of the Florida National Guard went on a self-imposed around-the-clock alert basis. The Florida Air National Guard was placed on an accelerated training program and remained in such status for approximately six weeks. While no unit of the Florida National Guard was placed on a formal alert, all units were alert to the situation and readied for immediate mobilization and deployment, should such be directed. Many Florida National Guard units assisted the active forces by facilitating the movement of convoys, loan of Federal equipment and making emergency repairs to ordnance equipment.

ARMORY BOARD, STATE OF FLORIDA

AUTHORITY

The Armory Board, State of Florida, is organized as provided by Section 250.40, Florida Statutes, and consists of the Governor, the Adjutant General, the State Quartermaster, the General Officers of the line, Group Commanders, Combat Command and Trains Commanders, and the Senior Air Commander of the Active Florida National Guard. (A detail of the organization of the Armory Board, State of Florida, is shown in Appendix VIII.)

MISSION

The Armory Board meets several times annually, at the call of the Chairman or Vice Chairman, to give consideration to plans for construction, alteration, rental, maintenance and management of all National Guard Armories, other facilities, and real properties as may be required for Florida National Guard usage.

In addition, the Armory Board is responsible for and controls forest management, mineral exploitation, game propagation programs, and the maintenance and improvement of the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding, subject to the approval of the U. S. Government.

POLICY

The National Guard has always been a joint effort of the Federal, State and local governments. It is through this mutual support that the National Guard has taken its place as a major component in the defense of our Nation, States and local communities. Therefore, it is the policy of the Armory Board that Armories be utilized by the citizenry of the community to the fullest extent possible, where such use is not to the detriment of the public interest, and does not interfere materially with the primary use of Armories, which is the housing and training of the military units stationed therein. The Armory Board further cooperates with the Armed Forces, State agencies and organizations by making available facilities at Camp Blanding for use of training, rifle marksmanship, instruction, etc.

There are 51 National Guard Armories in the State of Florida, located from Pensacola on the west, to Jacksonville on the northeast, to Homestead on the south. Listed in Appendix IX is the present status of existing National Guard Armories and facilities in the State of Florida.

PAST ACCOMPLISHMENTS

During the hiennium, a new three unit plus Armory was constructed at Craig Field in Jacksonville. This is one of the most modern and beautiful Armories in the State. This installation houses units formerly stationed in the Duval County Armory Annex, which had become unsafe for occupancy and was vacated.

Construction was started on new one-unit Armories at Panama City and Palmetto. These two Armories will replace inadequate facilities occupied by the respective units, and should be completed in early 1963.

Classroom extensions to the Bonifay and Crestview Armories were constructed, providing adequate instructional areas for the units housed therein.

In addition to the above major projects, numerous fencing, paving, repair and renovation projects have been accomplished during the biennium.

NAMING

During the biennium, the Armory Board adopted resolutions for the naming of two Armories. The St. Augustine Armory was named "The Mark W. Lance National Guard Armory", in honor of Lt. General Mark W. Lance (Retired), Adjutant General of Florida, 1947-1962.

The Duval County Armory was named "The Maxwell C. Snyder National Guard Armory" in honor of Lt. General Maxwell C. Snyder (Retired), Commanding General of the 48th Armored Division, 1957-1962.

FUTURE PROGRAM

While the present Armories are considered adequate, a few are becoming obsolescent, insofar as storage, classroom space, and outdoor training areas are concerned. This is due to reorganization of units, strength increase, and vast improvements in armaments since these Armories were constructed.

There still exists an urgent requirement for certain buildings that will provide storage, and maintenance facilities for State and Federal equipment. A list of these required facilities is contained in Appendix X.

OTHER FACILITIES AND PROJECTS

STATE ARSENAL

The State Arsenal, which houses the Headquarters, Military Department, State of Florida, has been renovated during this biennium, to preserve one of St. Augustine's most historic landmarks. The Arsenal has known three owners, the Spanish, English, and the Americans, and in 1922, by Act of Congress, was donated to the State of Florida by the United States for military purposes.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE

The Florida National Guard Air Base is located at Thomas Cole Imeson Airport in Jacksonville and is one of the finest bases in the country. The facilities consist of a hangar, an alert shelter, a flight simulator, warehouses, buildings for administration, ammunition assembly and checkout, weapons calibration, rocket storage and numerous other improvements. The facilities are valued at $2,500,000.00, and were constructed entirely with Federal funds.

RANGES

National Guard rifle ranges are located throughout the State at Camp Blanding, Avon Park, Ocala Forest and Tallahassee. In addition, an agreement exists with the Air Force for the utilization of the range at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa. These are all twenty-five (25) meter ranges; however, the known distance ranges are still maintained at Camp Blanding where competitive firing is conducted.

CAMP BLANDING

HISTORY

The Armory Board, in 1939, purchased 30,000 acres in Clay County for use as a camp site for the Florida National Guard. Warehouses, mess halls and latrines were constructed at that time. During World War II, the War Department leased Camp Blanding from the Armory Board and constructed a large cantonment area. An additional 40,000 acres contiguous to the State lands were purchased by the War Department for training purposes. Upon return of the State lands to the Armory Board at the end of World War II, a right-of-entry onto the Federal area was obtained. With the passage of Public Law 493 on 14 July 1954, the 40,000 acres of Federal land were deeded to the Armory Board with the stipulations that the lands be maintained as a military reservation, and that a forest management program be instituted. Surplus revenue earned from this forestry program and mining exploitation occurring on these former Federal lands is divided equally between the Armory Board and the Federal Government.

UTILIZATION

National Guard

The Florida National Guard utilizes this military reservation for training, consisting of field exercises, map problems, command post exercises, and small arms firing. In addition, the higher echelon maintenance required on Federal equipment is performed at the Combined Field Maintenance Shop. Recently, this shop was assigned the field maintenance mission for all vehicles and generators of Headquarters, U. S. Strike Command, located at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa.

The U. S. Property and Fiscal Officer has a warehouse, located within this reservation, for the receipt, storage and issue of all Federal property used by the National Guard.

During the biennium, an Officer Candidate School was established at Camp Blanding. Numerous buildings were completely renovated and made available for the exclusive use of the school, including a headquarters and classroom building, two classrooms and study hall buildings, five barracks, a mess hall and a latrine.

U. S. Army Reserves

On 1 June 1960, the Armory Board leased approximately 750 acres of land to the U. S. Army Reserves, providing a training area in the northeast section of the State for week end assemblies, bivouacs, etc. Joint utilization by the Florida National Guard is stipulated in the lease.

U. S. Marine Corps Reserves

On 30 August 1962, the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve unit in Jacksonville was authorized by the Armory Board to utilize Whitamore Lake for the operation of their amphibious tracked vehicles. A certain portion of the shoreline of the lake was designated for egress and ingress in order not to harm the lake or the shoreline.

Other Services

Other branches of the armed forces, consisting of Reserve Officers Training Corps, U. S. Air Force, U. S. Navy, U. S. Naval Reserve and U. S. Coast Guard utilized the small arms ranges approximately 310 days for an estimated 11,722 man-days of firing, during the biennium. This is permitted through a previous maintenance agreement.

Navy Bombing Range

The U. S. Atlantic Fleet, Fleet Air, Jacksonville Naval Air Station, continues to use a portion of Camp Blanding as a bombing range for the training of Naval pilots.

Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission

Under an agreement between the Armory Board and the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, portions of Camp Blanding were opened to controlled public hunting beginning in November 1956. This agreement is still in effect, and has furthered our relationship with the citizenry, due to a continued abundance of game in the area.

Clay County Development Authority

The Armory Board entered into an agreement with the Clay County Development Authority, (a State agency), on 24 August 1959, setting aside a parcel of land for development, by the Clay County Development Authority, of a youth recreation area. This parcel of land is located adjacent to and along the southwesterly shore of Kingsley Lake and consists of approximately six hundred (600) acres. As of this printing, no improvements have been made to this area by the Authority.

School Boy Patrol

Since the summer of 1959, the Armory Board has made available, upon the request of the Sheriff of Duval County, barracks and other facilities of Camp Blanding for the use of the Duval County School Boy Patrol. Each year, a two weeks encampment is held for the School Boy Patrol by the Duval County Sheriff's Office, with several hundred boys in attendance.

FOREST MANAGEMENT OPERATION

General

As stated earlier, the Armory Board is required to maintain the Federal lands at Camp Blanding as a military reservation, implement a forest management program, and continue improvements. This requirement is being adhered to, with a continuous program of timber sales and replanting under the supervision of a full-time forester. The replanting is done by a random method in order to keep the forest usable for military training. Construction of access roads, fencing, and installation of drainage structures continue as needed.

MINING OPERATION

Following World War II, E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company in cooperation with the Bureau of Mines discovered on the Camp Blanding lands a concentration of ilmenite which is used in the manufacture of white pigment for the color and paint industries. Minerals in addition to ilmenite were found in commercially usable quantities, the most important of these being staurolite and zircon. These minerals have been mined commercially since December 1947, by duPont in what is known as the Trail Ridge Mine. This mine is located on the State lands of Camp Blanding. The royalty from the Trail Ridge Mine goes entirely to the Armory Board. It is anticipated that ores at the Trail Ridge Mine will have been depleted by 1965, and will move onto former Federal lands.

The operation of the Highlands Mine commenced in 1955 on the former Federal lands of Camp Blanding. The royalty received from this mine is divided equally between the Armory Board and the U. S. Government. This mine will leave Camp Blanding altogether in 1965.

Due to the severe decrease in revenue caused by the loss of one mine entirely and one-half the revenue of the other, the Armory Board will be forced in the near future to turn to another source of income to maintain its support of National Guard facilities throughout the State.

During the period 1 January 1961 through 31 December 1961, 205,390 tons of ilmenite, 90,004 tons of staurolite, and 43,258 tons of zircon were removed from Camp Blanding by duPont.

CONSTRUCTION AND SALVAGE

During the biennium, twenty (20) World War II frame buildings were salvaged and removed as no longer usable or repairable.

Construction during the biennium included a $83,834.00 contract to renovate and join together three (3) existing motor storage buildings to be used as the USP&FO warehouse. This new facility will replace a World War II field house which is beyond repair and will provide adequate storage and administrative office space for storage and issue of Federal property. This construction was fully supported by Federal funds.

NAMING OF BUILDING

The Armory Board adopted a resolution whereby the Headquarters and Administration Building utilized by the Florida Officer Candidate School was named "Parrish Hall", in honor of Candidate Billy F. Parrish, a member of the first class of FOCS, who died near the end of the school term of 1961-62.

FUNDS

Appropriated Funds

Disbursements of General Revenue Funds are based on the appropriation made by the Florida State Legislature.

Armory Board Trust Fund

The Armory Board Trust Fund is established under the provisions of Chapter 250.41, Florida Statutes. This fund is used for the management, maintenance, and operation of Armory Board properties, exclusive of the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding. This fund derives its income from mining royalties, sale of timber products, sale of salvage materials, and the division of revenue from the Camp Blanding Management Fund.

Camp Blanding Management Fund

The Camp Blanding Management Fund is established under the provisions of Chapter 250.41, Florida Statutes, 1949, and an agreement between the Armory Board, State of Florida, and the United States of America, dated 24 January 1953, this agreement being required by Public Law 493, 83rd Congress, approved 14 July 1954, (68 Statute 474). All expenditures for management, maintenance and operation of the former Federal lands require approval of the U. S. District Engineer, who was appointed representative of the Secretary of the Army, following the passage of Public Law 493. The income of this fund is derived from mining royalties and sale of timber products, the net of which is annually divided equally between the Armory Board and the United States Government.

Service Contracts

Presently, the Military Department has several service contracts with the U. S. Government whereby the Armory Board is reimbursed 75% of the expenses of maintenance and operation of facilities of the Florida National Guard. These facilities include the State Arsenal, Air National Guard Base, Organizational Maintenance Shops, and portions of Camp Blanding.

Disbursements and Budgets

For disbursements for the past biennium, and budgets for the coming biennium, see Appendix XI.

Faithful Performance Bond

The Military Department has a Public Employees Faithful Performance Blanket Position Bond in the sum of $2,500.00 for all National Guard personnel responsible for property and/or funds, and all employees of the Department not otherwise required by law to be bonded. These individuals remain covered by bond until cleared of all property and funds after being terminated from position.

Workmen's Compensation Insurance

The Military Department carries Workmen's Compensation on employees paid from Armory Board Trust Fund and Camp Blanding Management Fund. During the fiscal years 1961-62, a total of 32 claims was submitted to the insurance carrier. The Military Department is self-insuror for all employees paid from General Revenue appropriation. During these same fiscal years, 3 claims in the amount of $58.00 were paid as self-insuror.

DATA PROCESSING SECTION

The Military Department, much as many other agencies, is involved in a necessary reporting system. Reports flow in, are correlated, consolidated, and forwarded as required. Manual handling is time consuming. Rapid means of obtaining and furnishing information have become increasingly important as other agencies have turned to Data Processing.

In 1960, a study was conducted to determine whether the Military Department could prove that Data Processing Equipment would be economically feasible. The study determined that International Business Machine Series 50 Data Processing equipment would provide the system desired. As a result, funds for the conversion were included in the 1962-63 Biennium Legislative Budget which was approved by the Legislature. Equipment and supplies were scheduled so that the program would be implemented on 1 July 1962, and the Data Processing (IBM) Section was established under the general supervision of the State Quartermaster.

During the first six months of operation, 70 per cent of the planned programs to be converted were implemented. During the balance of Fiscal Year 1963, the remainder of the program will be established. It is contemplated that during the next fiscal year additional systems will be programed and converted to the punch card system.

STRENGTH

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

An overall strength, nationwide, of 400,000 was provided for the Army National Guard during Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962. Florida was assigned a maximum strength of 7,461 which was increased to 7,563 effective 1 April 1961; to 7,565 effective 29 August 1961; and to 7,584 effective 23 February 1962.

Under the provisions of Public Law 87-117 and Presidential Executive Order 10957, relating to the Berlin Crisis, all Ready Reserve obligations and enlistments in the Army National Guard, expiring between 1 October 1961 and 30 June 1962, were extended for one year. By Presidential Order, five units of the Florida Army National Guard, with an aggregate strength of 209, entered active military duty effective 1 October 1961, followed on 15 October 1961 by one additional unit with an aggregate strength of 85. As a result of the impact of the military build up on training installations, the input of trainees into RFA 55 Six Months Active Duty Training was suspended for the period 1 September 1961 to 31 December 1961. The enlistment of non-prior service personnel was restricted to men who had not attained their 20th birthday during the period 1 September 1961 to 21 November 1961; and to men who had not attained their 22nd birthday for the period 22 November 1961 to 31 December 1961. Effective 1 January 1962, the restrictions on the enlistment of non-prior service personnel and the suspension of input into RFA 55 Six Months Training were lifted.

Appendix XII contains a summary of strength and the gains and losses by source. The total loss of 6,464 includes the 294 individuals mustered into the active Federal service. The total gain of 6,276 results in a net loss for the biennium of 188.

A number of reorganizations, as a result of change to Tables of Organization and Equipment, were accomplished with minor effect upon the strength or organization. Reorganizations of consequence were 30 September 1961, disbandment of the 131st Quartermaster Platoon; 1 October 1961, transfer of command of the 51st Infantry Division from South Carolina to Florida; 1 June 1962, conversion to Warrant Officer Career Program; and 29 July 1962, transfer of command of the 48th Armored Division from Florida to Georgia with the subsequent reorganization of Headquarters & Headquarters Company, 48th Armored Division effective 1 September 1962.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD

The Air National Guard was authorized an overall pay drill strength of 72,000 for Fiscal Year 1961 and 1962. The Florida Air National Guard was allotted a Unit Manning Document strength of 808, which was increased to 998 on 1 June 1961, with the reorganization of the existing Air National Guard units and the activation of the 125th Materiel Squadron. The pay drill strength for the entire period was limited to 80.9% of the Unit Manning Document strength. The actual strength of the Florida Air National Guard remained at approximately 78% of Unit Manning Document strength with only minor variations.

RESERVE OFFICER PERSONNEL ACT OF 1954

Reserve Officer Personnel Act of 1954, as enacted and amended by Congress, was designed to continually revitalize the Officer Corps of the Reserve Components of the Armed Forces. It established maximum age limitations, by officer grade categories, beyond which officers were ineligible to remain assigned to the active Reserve Forces. The Act became applicable to the Army National Guard on 1 July 1960 and, in addition to the maximum age limitations, it provides for the mandatory elimination of officers based on total years of service and time in grade, and for the mandatory consideration of officers for promotion upon completion of specified maximum years promotion service.

The mandatory elimination provisions require elimination of officers based upon completion of specified years of commissioned service or a combination of age and years of commissioned service. In effect, Lieutenant Colonels and below may face elimination as early as age 46 or as late as age 53 depending upon age at time of initial commission. Colonels and Brigadier Generals may be eliminated as early as age 48 or as late as age 60, although most will be eliminated near age 55. Major Generals may be eliminated as early as age 53 or as late as age 62. Exceptions permit the State Adjutants General to remain active until age 64; Assistant State Adjutants General, officers of State Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, and certain officers of the Medical Corps, Dental Corps, and Chaplain Corps to remain active until age 60. Officers affected during the period of this report are contained in Appendix XIII, indicating the date each met the elimination criteria and the ultimate disposition of the officer.

Under the mandatory promotion consideration provisions, First Lieutenants with 4 years promotion service and 6 years total service; Captains with 7 years promotion service and 12 years total service; and Majors with 7 years promotion service and 17 years total service, are required to be considered for mandatory promotion to the next higher grade without regard to availability of the higher grade position within the State. To be selected for promotion, the officer must meet the military educational requirements for the grade under consideration and the physical standards. The officer's efficiency and demonstrated performance of duty are also considered. An officer who is selected for promotion has three courses of action available, in that (1) he could be promoted in the Army National Guard provided a position vacancy exists in the higher grade and he is recommended by the Army National Guard commander for such position and for promotion; or (2) he could decline promotion, remain assigned to the Army National Guard unit in his current grade for 3 years and upon expiration thereof, if not sooner promoted, he must be discharged from the Army National Guard, and transferred to the US Army Reserve where he will be promoted; or (3) he could immediately accept the promotion in which case he must be discharged from the Army National Guard and transferred to the US Army Reserve where he will be promoted.

An officer who fails to be selected upon first consideration must be again considered by the next board convened. If selected upon second consideration, officer's eligibility date for promotion is one year later than if he had been selected the first time, and he has the same courses of action as if selected the first time. An officer who fails to be selected for the second time must be separated from the Army National Guard within 90 days, except that an officer with over 18 but less than 20 years satisfactory service toward Federal military retirement, may be retained to complete the 20 years satisfactory service but is ineligible to again be considered for promotion or to be promoted.

The results of the selection boards for the first two years are indicated in Appendix XIV. Of the 15 failing selection for the second time, 6 were retained to complete 20 years satisfactory service, with 3 scheduled for separation during calendar year 1962 and 3 scheduled for separation during calendar year 1963. Of the 105 selected, 60 continue to serve under the 3 year declination with 19 expiring in 1964 and 41 expiring in 1965. A total of 14 selected officers elected to immediately accept the promotion in the Reserve of the Army and were discharged from the Army National Guard. Of the remaining 31 selected officers, 12 have been promoted within the Army National Guard and 19 have been separated for other reasons.

The present impact upon the Florida National Guard, in loss of officer personnel, is obvious; however, the greatest impact is expected in 1965 when declinations, for those selected by the second selection board, expire. The increase in loss of officer personnel will require a corresponding increase in officer procurement. The average length of service of an officer in the Florida National Guard will be reduced. When considered with the following list of the number of positions authorized each commissioned grade, it can be readily seen that a large number will be forced out at each grade level and very few officers will, hereafter, be able to complete the 30 years Florida National Guard service to qualify for Florida National Guard Retirement Benefits under the provisions of Section 250.22, Florida Statutes.

Officer Grades	Number of Positions Authorized
General Officers	4
Colonels	10
Lieutenant Colonels	34
Majors	86
Captains	232
Lieutenants	368

Total Officers Authorized	734

STATEMENTS OF SERVICE

The Personnel Section of the Military Department has custody of available records of the soldiers of Florida. These records include Muster Rolls of the Indian Wars of 1835, Muster Rolls of the Florida Militia and Florida National Guard since 1835, and Rolls of the Florida troops mustered into the Confederate Forces and Union Forces in the War Between the States (Civil War), the Spanish American War, the Mexican Border Incident, World War I, World War II, the Korean Emergency, and the Berlin Crisis. A card record is maintained for each individual who entered World War I from the State of Florida, whether by enlistment, induction through Selective Service, or induction with the Florida National Guard. In addition, an individual file folder, containing copies of all pertinent orders and personnel documents, is retained for each individual who has ever been a member of the Florida National Guard (Army and Air). The individual folders for current members are separated from the folders of former members and are maintained current at all times. These records occupy approximately 1,000 feet of shelf filing space.

Requests for Statements of Service and information generally fall into two broad categories. The majority of requests are in the category requesting documentary evidence to establish eligibility for some type of benefit such as: Federal or State Military Retirement Benefits; birth date and/or active Federal service for Social Security benefits; increased military longevity pay for former service; burial in a National Cemetery or government furnished grave marker; or hospitalization or other financial benefits through the Veterans Administration. The second category pertains to requests in the interest of genealogy or history and, for the most part, are applicable to records prior to 1900.

The number of Statements of Service furnished during the period of this report was 700 for Fiscal Year 1961 and 786 for Fiscal Year 1962.

PUBLICATIONS, REPRODUCTIONS AND MAIL SECTION

The Publications, Reproductions and Mail Section, under the supervision of the Headquarters Adjutant, functions under the provisions of The Department of the Army pertinent directives, and those policies and procedures as established by The Adjutant General, State of Florida.

During the two year period, 1 January 1961 through 31 December 1962, the 47,500 stock record cards maintained in the Publications Section reflect that approximately 42,980 new publications and blank forms were distributed on an initial basis to some 135 units and accounts. This section processed 6,035 unit requisitions for additional and/or replacement publications and blank forms, comprising approximately 37,172 separate line items of forms and publications. During this same period, this section received 7,758 items of publications and blank forms from DA publications Depots, and processed 3,960 packages for delivery to National Guard units and accounts. Receipt and distribution of recruiting and/or publicity material, the maintenance and distribution of some 760 Equipment Parts Lists (check lists) and stockage and issuance of State and Federal forms, are also the responsibility of this section.

The Reproductions Section is responsible for the multilith processing of all State and/or Florida National Guard circulars, bulletins, form letters, Special Orders, General Orders, Standing Operating Procedures and Armory Construction Contracts, and for the microfilm processing of all official Military Department records to include correspondence, Special Orders, Morning Reports and historical records. This section is also responsible for the xerograph processing of master offset plates for multilith reproductions and xerocopies of reproductions of legal documents, official correspondence and drawings. During the two years period, 1 January 1961 through 31 December 1962, this section processed 11,819 multilith stencils, producing 2,382,381 impressions, of which 2,409 were xerocopy masters.

The Microfilm Section during this period completed the microfilming of Special Orders, Morning Reports and other records that were programed for the two year period. This section is now in the process of programing the microfilming of all National Guard payroll vouchers from 1946 to present date. During the period 1 January 1961 through 31 December 1962, this section processed 2,513 feet of microfilm, producing 62,823 images.

The Headquarters Mail Section is responsible for the receipt and distribution of all incoming mail, and the processing of all outgoing mail for delivery to the U. S. Post Office and for the inter-headquarters mail service. This section also prepares and maintains addressograph plate files for all units of the Florida Army and Air National Guard, all Departmental Agencies, and individuals to whom mail is regularly processed. During the two years period 1 January 1961 through 31 December 1962, this section processed 181,300 individual pieces of mail and packages, and 867 registered or certified mail.

Null, later relieved by Major Oscar O. Wilkerson, were ordered to Active State Duty for purpose of aiding civil authorities in tornado disaster relief, protection of property and in traffic control in Milton. These troops were relieved effective 1335 hours, 2 April 1962.

RIFLE AND PISTOL MARKSMANSHIP MATCHES

NATIONAL MATCHES

National Rifle (Cal. .30) and Pistol Matches (Cal. .22, Cal. .38, and Cal. .45)

The National Rifle and Pistol Matches, conducted under the supervision of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Marksmanship, and the National Rifle Association, were held again at Camp Perry, Ohio, during the years 1961-1962. The Florida National Guard was represented in the Rifle Matches in both 1961 and 1962, and in the Pistol Matches in 1961. In addition to the selection of Capt. Roy A. Diehl as a member of the All National Guard Rifle Team during the 1961 Rifle Matches, individual Rifle Marksmanship Awards were won by Capt. Diehl, SP-5 Richard A. Evors and SP-4 Morris V. Lindsey in 1961, and by Capt. Diehl, SFC Richard J. Waldron, and S/Sgt Ernest V. Gonzales in 1962. CWO John C. Stephens received Individual Pistol Marksmanship Awards in the 1961 Pistol Matches.

ARMY AREA MATCHES

Third U. S. Army Rifle (Cal. .30) and Pistol (Cal. .22, Cal. .38, and Cal. .45) Championship Matches.

The Third U. S. Army Championship Matches conducted by Commanding General, Headquarters, Third U. S. Army were held at Ft. Benning, Georgia, for 1961-1962. The Florida National Guard was represented in both Rifle and Pistol Competition at these matches during 1962. Individual Rifle Marksmanship Awards were won by Lt. Cene A. Krueger. Second place Trophy for the Commanding General's Pistol Team Match was awarded to The Florida National Guard Team.

CHIEF, NATIONAL GUARD BUREAU MATCHES

CHIEF, NATIONAL GUARD BUREAU INDOOR RIFLE MATCHES (Postal)
(Cal. .22)

The Chief, National Guard Bureau Indoor Rifle Matches (Postal) are conducted annually by the National Rifle Association under the authority of the Chief, National Guard Bureau. The matches consist of a Unit Team Match, a Battalion Team Match, and an Individual Match.

National Rifle Association Indoor Rifle Tournament (Cal. .22)

The National Rifle Association Indoor Rifle Tournament is conducted annually under authority of the Chief, National Guard Bureau, and sponsored by the Adjutant General. The Tournament consists of competitive matches between three rifle leagues, with the winning team in each league competing for the State Championship, and the State Championship Team being eligible to shoot for the National Rifle Association Trophy.

STATE MARKSMANSHIP MATCHES

THE TALIAFERRO TROPHY MATCH (Cal. .30, M-1)

The Taliaferro Trophy Match is conducted each year at Camp Blanding, Florida, under authority of The Adjutant General. The Taliaferro Trophy, was presented to the Militia of Florida in 1903 by the Honorable James P. Taliaferro, then United States Senator from Florida. It is awarded annually for Unit Team Rifle Marksmanship Competition.

THE INDIVIDUAL RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY MATCH (Cal. .30, M-1)

The Individual Rifle Championship Trophy Match is fired concurrently with the Taliaferro Trophy Match. The Individual Rifle Championship Trophy, presented to the Florida National Guard in 1959, by Brigadier General Robert C. White, then Assistant Adjutant General, is awarded to the individual achieving the highest record score during the Individual Rifle Championship Match.

THE INDIVIDUAL PISTOL CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH (Cal. .45)

The Individual Pistol Championship Match is conducted each year at Camp Blanding, Florida, under authority of The Adjutant General. The match is conducted to determine the outstanding Pistol Marksman in the Florida National Guard.

THE I. THORD-CRAY TROPHY MATCH (Cal. .30, Carbine)

The I. Thord-Cray Match is conducted each year at Camp Blanding, Florida, under authority of The Adjutant General. The I. Thord-Cray Trophy was presented to the Florida National Guard by Major General I. Thord-Cray, retired British Army Officer in 1930. It is awarded for Unit Team Rifle Marksmanship (Carbine) Competition.

THE INDIVIDUAL CARBINE CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH (Cal. .30, Carbine)

The Individual Carbine Championship Match is fired concurrently with the I. Thord-Cray Trophy Match. The match is conducted to determine that individual achieving the highest record score during the I. Thord-Cray Match.

For detail on composition of teams and winners for 1961 and 1962, see Appendix XV.

THIRD ARMY NATIONAL GUARD DIVISION TRAINING TROPHY

This Trophy, established by the Commanding General, Third United States Army for award to the outstanding National Guard Division in the Third Army Area each Calendar Year, was awarded to the 48th Armored Division (Florida and Georgia) for the fourth time in 1961. This award, covering all phases of the administrative and training fields, reflects very favorably of the 48th Armored Division and the standards of the Florida Army National Guard. The announcement of this award for 1962 has not been made as of the date of this publication.

EFFICIENCY AWARDS

The National Guard Award for Efficiency in Training is awarded each year to all Army National Guard units that obtained an Annual Training Evaluation Rating of Superior during the summer field training period. During Fiscal Years 1961-62, 29 Florida Army National Guard units were awarded an annual rating of Superior. In Fiscal Years 1962-63, 59 units were awarded Superior ratings. (For list of units receiving subject awards, see Appendix XVII.)

STATE OFFICER CANDIDATE SCHOOL TROPHY AND AWARDS

The Erickson Trophy, named in honor of Major General Edgar G. Erickson (Retired), former Chief of the National Guard Bureau, is awarded annually to the State Officer Candidate School's "Distinguished Graduate." The first annual award of this trophy was made in 1962 to William F. Fletcher, III, Headquarters Company, 1st Medium Tank Battalion, 187th Armor.

The Association of The United States Army Award, a plaque awarded annually to that State Officer Candidate School graduate who demonstrates the "highest standards of leadership" while undergoing the program. The first annual award of this plaque was made in 1962 to Robert L. Deason, Company A, 202nd Medical Battalion.

The Florida National Guard Officers Association of Florida Award, a plaque awarded annually to that State Officer Candidate School graduate who attains the "highest academic standing" while undergoing the program. The first award of this plaque was made in 1962 to Vernon B. Davis, Company B, 2nd Armored Rifle Battalion, 124th Infantry.

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD TRAINING

The training program for the Florida Army National Guard is conducted in accordance with the criteria prescribed for Reserve Components of the Army by the United States Continental Army Command, in coordination with the National Guard Bureau. The Commanding General, Third United States Army has the responsibility for coordination, support and supervision of prescribed training. Standards for training are established by Department of the Army and the performance of each unit is evaluated annually during the active duty training period by Active Army officers. This system of training keeps all elements of the National Guard abreast of the current doctrine and training methods. It also facilitates an efficient transition upon mobilization, from a well trained Ready Reserve force to a combat ready team, upon completion of additional minimum postmobilization unit training.

Training is classified in four general phases. The first two phases, Basic Combat Training and Advanced Individual Training (AIT), are designed to concentrate on the development of the basic skills and techniques required of the individual in the performance of duties which he will be assigned upon satisfactory completion. At the conclusion of this training the individual is assigned a Military Occupational Specialty Code (MOS) commensurate with the type training received in the AIT phase which denotes qualifications to perform the duties of his particular job assignment.

All personnel entering the Florida Army National Guard who have no prior service receive the first two phases of training during a six months active duty training program conducted at an Active Army Training Center. This program, known as the Reserve Forces Act (RFA), allows young men to elect upon enlistment, that six-month training period among those scheduled, which best fits their needs, e.g., immediately following graduation from school or during a slack period of a seasonal industry.

During the period covered by this report many Guardsmen from this State, as shown in Appendix XX, completed their individual training through the RFA program. Other personnel receive training for higher skill levels within their assigned field or receive training in new fields through attendance at Army Service Schools. This program is an expansion of the Advanced Individual Training phase.

The third phase of training, Basic Unit Training, is conducted locally by all units in accordance with the Army Training Program appropriate for that unit. The purpose of training during this phase is to develop effective, well coordinated sections, teams and small units which are composed of members who have learned their particular skills and techniques during the individual training phase.

Finally, the Advanced Unit Training phase is designed to provide practice in the employment of unit techniques, to develop unit operating procedures, and to furnish command and staff training in the conduct of combined arms operations.

All units of the Florida Army National Guard have continued to progressively develop proficiency within the Basic Unit Phase of training during 1961 and 1962. The training objectives established by United States Continental Army Command to be attained by close of Annual Active Duty Training (ANACDUTRA) period for 1962 were met by all units. These objectives were as follows:

1. Priority I and II combat units (Infantry, Armor and Artillery):
 - a. Infantry and Armor. Train at platoon level through ANACDUTRA 1962; upon successful completion, initiate company level training.
 - b. Artillery. Train at battery level through ANACDUTRA 1962; upon successful completion, initiate battalion level training.
2. Priority III combat units:
 - a. Infantry and Armor. Train at platoon level through ANACDUTRA 1962, and maintain such level of proficiency thereafter.
 - b. Artillery. Train at battery level through ANACDUTRA 1962, and maintain such level of proficiency thereafter.

3. Technical and Administrative units. Continue training in basic unit phase under appropriate Army Training Program.

Continued emphasis on planning and supervision of training during this period has resulted in higher ratings during the annual active duty period for each successive year. The overall rating for all units during ANACDUTRA 1962 was the highest received by the Florida Army National Guard to date. This achievement was attained by effective command guidance and efficient, coordinated staff effort through all echelons.

Location of training sites and dates for all active duty training periods during 1961 and 1962 are shown in Appendix XVIII. Attendance for 1961 was 5,929; for 1962, 5,942.

Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School was established as an integral part of the Florida Army National Guard in June 1961. This school plays a vital role in our training program and the development of future leaders. Detailed information concerning the activity is covered in another part of this report.

A new minimum standards for the status of readiness of Reserve Component units were established by Department of the Army in September 1961. These standards provide the basis from which all units are evaluated annually on organization, strength, attendance, and prescribed training.

A Florida Army National Guard Radiological Monitoring Plan was placed in effect in December 1961, in compliance with a request from Headquarters, Third United States Army, which will provide input data to that command's radiological network. Areas of responsibility for monitoring and reporting, as needed, were assigned. Major commanders are responsible for organization and training of monitoring teams within their assigned areas. This program is coordinated at State and local levels with Civil Defense, Federal Aviation Administration and Weather Bureau authorities.

Increased emphasis was directed on counterinsurgency/counter-guerrilla warfare training in March 1962. Such training has been integrated in each unit's regular training program and particular emphasis has been incorporated in the ANACDUTRA training periods.

48TH ARMORED DIVISION (FLORIDA PART)

In 1961 and 1962, the 48th Armored Division, composed of elements from Florida and Georgia, won for the fifth time the Third United States Army, National Guard Division Training Trophy. Within this division, the excellence of the Florida troops is evidenced in the fact that in ratings earned during 1961 and 1962 active duty training, for every branch represented in the Florida Part, a Florida battalion was the best of its type in the entire division.

During 1961, of 35 company size units inspected by the Third United States Army Inspector General, 37.2% were rated superior while 62.8% were rated excellent.

The division training average for 1961 was 95.88%. During 1962 the division increased its proficiency and received an overall average of 96.71%. Noteworthy during 1962 were ratings received by Florida's Combat Command "A" and its subordinate units. Combat Command "A" was rated high Combat Command in the division with an average of 96.72%. The three subordinate battalions of the Command were the three high battalions in the division. The 1st Medium Tank Battalion (Patton), 187th Armor received a 99.28% rating; the 2nd Armored Rifle Battalion, 124th Infantry received a 98.91% rating; and the 1st Armored Rifle Battalion, 124th Infantry received a 98.43% rating.

The 2nd Howitzer Battalion, 116th Artillery, the only other combat battalion within the Florida Part of the 48th Armored Division, was the highest rated artillery battalion in the division with a 97.59% average. All other Florida units of the division were rated in the superior category.

During ANACDUTRA 1962 the division for the first time cross-reinforced tank and infantry battalions in the field. Thus, the organization of all line battalions was as it would be were the division operating in a combat situation. The cross-reinforced training was considered to be the best the division has accomplished to date and greatly enhanced the training and combat capabilities of all battalions.

On 28 July 1962, a Change of Command Ceremony was conducted at Fort Stewart, Georgia. During the ceremony, command of the 48th Armored Division passed from Major General Maxwell C. Snyder to Brigadier General Benjamin F. Merritt, reverting command of the division from the State of Florida to the State of Georgia. Reorganization as a result of the change of command was accomplished on 1 September 1962 in a smooth, uninterrupted transition with no loss in the division's overall effectiveness.

51ST INFANTRY DIVISION (FLORIDA PART)

Selection of Fort Stewart, Georgia, as an ANACDUTRA training site for the division has provided an opportunity for all units of the command to train together. Accordingly, for the first time since the division was organized, it has conducted combined arms training. Armor-Infantry exercises proved highly successful, adding immeasurably to the interest, organization and state of training.

Ever mindful of the threat of nuclear warfare and the paradoxical need for dispersion, concentration at critical points, mobility, solidarity of command, alternate headquarters, cover and concealment, use of maximum protective measures, yet capable of inflicting maximum punishment on the enemy, the division commander utilized his engineer troops to prepare a model division headquarters command post considering these factors. Sections less apt to frequent moves were "bunkered-in" with conventional overhead covering, fixed in nature. Sections subject to frequent moves utilized personnel carriers, appropriately dug-in and camouflaged, capable of debouching the area in minutes. Internal communications were dug-in to sustain maximum effectiveness during nuclear attack. Engineer efforts were most effective and offered an exceptionally fine training vehicle.

50TH QUARTERMASTER GROUP

Units of the 50th Quartermaster Group have demonstrated their ability to provide technical support for the combat arms during the period of this report.

Beachmaster of 161st Transportation Battalion (FARNG) directing Amphibious trucks to shore positions on Ship Island, Mississippi during ANACDUTRA 1962.

Five units of this command were called to Active Federal service incident to the "Berlin Crisis of 1961-62." Their performance during the period of Active duty was highly commended by various commanders concerned. These units proved themselves prepared and capable of performing their assigned missions efficiently.

Headquarters & Headquarters Detachment, 161st Transportation Battalion (Terminal Service) and three attached units; 1043rd Transportation Company (Term Svc), 1044th Transportation Company (Amphibious Truck) and 1045th Transportation Company (Amph Trk), in particular, received realistic training vital to their assigned missions during the summer training sessions of 1961 and 1962 at Camp LeRoy Johnson, Louisiana. These units are equipped with substitute land equipment at home stations and only receive training with amphibious equipment during ANACDUTRA.

Performance by the Headquarters & Headquarters Detachment, 50th Quartermaster Group, in control and supervision of their subordinate, diverse type units, has been outstanding.

All units have progressed in their training performance in each successive year. This Group received the highest average rating for ANACDUTRA 1962 of all units throughout the State.

SUMMARY

The standards and objectives for training of the Florida Army National Guard are continually evaluated and improved at each level of command, here, within the State of Florida, and at the various levels within the Department of the Army where responsibilities rest for assuring a highly trained Ready Reserve.

The units of this State have continued to progress in their training achievements and efficiency. Each commander strives to obtain maximum utilization of manpower and greater economical usage of available funds for training. Rising standards of unit and individual performance bring about higher standards of preparedness. A higher cost in personal time and effort on the part of all our Guardsmen will necessarily follow. The demonstrated enthusiasm and performance of the individual members and units of the Florida Army National Guard show that they are prepared to carry out their State and Federal missions.

SCHOOL PROGRAM

The School Program, participated in by officer and enlisted personnel of the Florida Army National Guard, comprises Branch and Technical Training Courses at the various Army Service Schools.

Special Courses of Instruction conducted at Army Area Schools, and Special Army Exercises.

The School Program, supported in nearly all areas from Federal Funds, furnishes the vehicle for the training of newly commissioned officers, advanced and refresher training of other officers, and the specialized and advanced training of enlisted personnel in the Combat Arms, Technical and Administrative fields.

During the biennium, the School Program was participated in by 343 officers and 407 enlisted personnel. (See Appendix XIX for School Program statistics.)

SIX MONTHS ACTIVE DUTY TRAINING PROGRAM

Non-prior service personnel, as a condition for enlistment in the Army National Guard, must enter Six Months Active Duty for Training within 120 days after date of enlistment; except that a high school student may be deferred from entry into active duty for not more than one year, or until he ceases to satisfactorily pursue such course, graduates, or attains age 20, whichever is the earlier.

During fiscal year 1961, the initial quota of 1,308 spaces allotted by the National Guard Bureau was reduced to 1,240. A total of 1,239 actually entered the training, resulting in a loss of only one space.

The initial quota of 1,193 spaces allotted for fiscal year 1962 was modified and reduced to 1,188 spaces. Due to the suspension of inputs for the period 1 September 1961 to 31 December 1961, as a result of the Berlin Crisis mobilization, the quotas for the last half of the fiscal year were extremely large. Further, the maximum age restriction for enlistment of non-prior service personnel was reduced to age 20 for the period 1 September 1961 to 21 November 1961 and raised to age 22 for the period 22 November 1961 to 31 December 1961. This age restriction severely limited the enlistment of nonprior service personnel and the normal enlistment rate for this category of personnel was not regained during the remainder of the fiscal year. The greatly increased quotas for January through March 1962 were filled by individuals who had enlisted prior to 1 September 1961 and who had been previously scheduled for input during the period inputs were suspended. The enlistments subsequent to 1 September, even with the removal of age restrictions on 31 December 1961, were not sufficient to fill quotas for April and May 1962. The June quota was principally filled with high school students graduating in June. The 1,114 actually entering the training filled only 93% of the quota allotted.

Statistical data relative to the Six Months Active Duty Training Program is contained in Appendix XX.

FLORIDA NATIONAL GUARD OFFICER CANDIDATE SCHOOL

A Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School was established in February 1961, for the purpose of training selected enlisted men to qualify them for commissions in the Florida Army National Guard. Through this source, many officers will be available to fill existing and future vacancies.

The first class of Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School matriculated in July 1961. Forty-nine candidates were initially enrolled, of which twenty-four graduated in June 1962. At that time, Class Nr. 2 was started with an enrollment of eighty.

This course requires one year for completion with a total of 272 hours of academic instruction which is presented during two 15 day summer camp periods and eight weekend assemblies. Equal emphasis is given leadership development and academics. The curriculum is based upon that developed and used by the Active Army at Fort Benning, Georgia, and all examinations are graded at Fort Benning by personnel of the US Army Infantry School. The course itself is difficult and designed to both educate and evaluate the candidates while they are under induced pressures. Candidates who do not measure up to exacting standards of performance are eliminated from the program.

The Adjutant General is Director of Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School, assisted by an Academic Board, Review Board and the School Commandant who is responsible for the operation of the School. The staff and faculty assist the Commandant.

The Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School is located at Camp Blanding. State-owned buildings, renovated for the School's use, include an administration building, mess hall, latrine, barracks and class rooms. In addition, adequate training areas are situated adjacent to the School site.

The State and Federal governments jointly support the Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School. Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Florida Army National Guard, has furnished the cadre for the two weeks summer training period during the past two years. Instructors and tactical officers are obtained from the various units of the Florida Army National Guard.

Although only entering its second year, the Florida National Guard Officer Candidate School is considered to be one of the best in the Nation. It is expected to add to its reputation by furnishing well qualified and dedicated officers to the Army National Guard of Florida throughout the coming years.

FEDERAL FUNDS AND EQUIPMENT

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

During the years since World War II, Federal support to the National Guard has been on a scale unprecedented throughout the long history of the citizen soldier. Value of Federal equipment (tanks, vehicles, aircraft, clothing, weapons, electronic items, medical equipment, etc.) on loan to the Florida Army National Guard at the close of the biennium totalled $16,500,180.00.

The United States Property and Fiscal Officer, a member of the Florida National Guard on full time active Federal duty, administers and is accountable for all Federal funds and property utilized by the Florida Army National Guard. This officer is the principal Staff advisor and manager for the State Adjutant General in instances where Federal support of the Florida National Guard is involved. During Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962 Federal funds in direct support of the Florida Army National Guard totalled $12,954,549.00.

In order to insure the maximum efficient utilization of Federal funds, property, and supplies required to equip and train the Florida Army National Guard, the Federal government supports 330 Army National Guard Technicians. These Technicians, representing about 4% of the overall strength of the Army National Guard, are employed on a full time basis. They are specialists in the field of administration, finance, accounting, supply, and maintenance; and, except for a few female employees, are also required to be military members of the various organizations and units of the National Guard located throughout the State.

During the biennium procedures used in accounting for Federal funds and property have been streamlined and brought more closely into line with those used by the active services. These more complex procedures permit more efficient management for the Adjutant General. Under these procedures a number of records and reports are now handled by data processing systems. Requisitioning of property and supplies from Federal supply agencies is accomplished by IBM punch cards. It is expected that the scope of use of punch cards will continue to increase.

Many of the repair parts, operating supplies, housekeeping supplies and services required in the day to day operation of the Florida National Guard are purchased within the State. The value of these items for the biennium totalled approximately $1,312,841.00.

Payrolls in direct support of the Florida Army National Guard have an appreciable impact on the economy of the State. During Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962, pay for full time technicians and the several thousand members of the Florida Army National Guard along with that of Army Advisors totalled $10,569,404.00. National Guardsmen receive base pay for a maximum of 48 Armory drills each year, along with pay and allowances for Annual Field Training, and pay and allowances during short tours of active duty or while attending Army Service Schools.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD

The mission of the Florida Air National Guard is such that it must be operationally ready for combat at all times. To insure the maximum in readiness, the Federal government funds and equips the Air National Guard on a level closely paralleling the active Air Force. An average of 219 full time Federally supported technicians are employed at the Air National Guard Base in Jacksonville. These technicians, representing about 28% of the overall strength of the Florida Air National Guard, are specialists in the fields of command, administration, finance, accounting, supply, and maintenance. Except for a few female employees, they are all members of the various military units that make up the Florida Air National Guard; and their military assignment closely parallels their technician specialty.

The United States Property and Fiscal Officer is accountable for all Federal funds and property utilized by the Florida Air National Guard. During Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962, Federal funds in the amount of $4,648,506.00 were processed through the accounts of the USPFO in support of the Florida Air National Guard. This represents an increase of $1,547,812.00 over expenditures for the previous two fiscal years. The value of military equipment in use has remained close to thirty million dollars.

The F102A aircraft, with which the Florida Air National Guard is currently equipped, is an expensive weapon to operate. Cash purchases of supplies and services in the Jacksonville area in support of this aircraft during Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962 totalled $33,000.00; while Purchase Orders and Delivery Orders on local business concerns totalled $95,000.00. Local transportation companies received $39,780.00 for movement of materiel from Jacksonville to various points in the Nation. Cross Service Agreements with other military activities in the Jacksonville area resulted in services to the Florida Air National Guard valued at $23,190.00. Not to be ignored was the new construction and improvements to existing facilities in the amount of $107,729.00. The Federal funds paid to Florida business concerns, coupled with the $3,528,511.00 paid in salaries during this period, represents an industry of considerable value to the State of Florida and its citizens.

The warehouse inventory leveled at $1,746,147.00 while the average volume of issues of parts and equipment was $356,757.00 per month. These two figures indicate an efficient inventory control system that is well within the limits prescribed by the active Air Force. The aircraft fuels section issued fuel and petroleum products during this period that were valued at $515,588.00.

Several major changes took place in the supply system of the Federal government that directly affected the Florida Air National Guard. Department of Defense implemented its MILSTRIP procedures (Military Standard Requisitioning and Issue Procedures) and the conversion was accomplished in an orderly manner. The establishment of a BEMO (Base Equipment Management Office) at the unit supply level made the Air National Guard compatible with the Air Force, but did require many system and management changes.

A recapitulation of Federal support to the Florida Air National Guard will be found in Appendix XXI.

INTER-SERVICE AGREEMENTS

Under present day policies of the Federal Government, the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines, and the Reserve Forces, including the National Guard furnish mutual logistical support to one another, on a reimbursable basis, whenever such support is requested and is within the capability of the requested agency. This policy is of appreciable value to the taxpayer in that it reduces duplication of supply and maintenance facilities. In keeping with this policy, the Florida National Guard has entered into a number of Inter-service agreements during the biennium. These agreements go beyond the traditional support furnished by the active services to the National Guard in that they also include support to the active forces by the National Guard. This State currently has working agreements with Fort Stewart, Georgia; Jacksonville Naval Air Station; Sanford Naval Air Station; Orlando Air Force Base; Patrick Air Force Base; Homestead Air Force Base; MacDill Air Force Base; United States Strike Command; Tyndall Air Force Base; Eglin Air Force Base; Pensacola Naval Air Station; and the IV U. S. Army Corps. Agreements with each of the above activities are tailor made; and include such support to the National Guard as repair of aircraft, calibration of instruments, supply of medical items, supply of subsistence, and laundry service. Florida National Guard return support includes supply of gasoline within the State to active Army, the US Army Reserve, US Marine

MAINTENANCE

Maintenance of Army National Guard equipment is under the supervision of the State Maintenance Officer who is the principal staff advisor to the Adjutant General on such matters. The State Maintenance Officer is a full time Federally supported technician.

User Maintenance of Federal property used by the Florida Army National Guard is performed by Federally supported technicians at 17 strategically located Organizational Maintenance Shops. Heavier maintenance is performed by the Combined Field Maintenance Shop located at Camp Blanding. Maintenance of Army aircraft is performed by shops located in Jacksonville and Tampa. These shop facilities, except for the Aircraft Shop in Tampa, were built entirely with Federal funds. The Tampa Aircraft Shop is under lease to the State from a private concern. Maintenance requirements beyond the capability of these facilities are performed at various active military installations.

Maintenance technicians at all levels are well qualified to perform their work. In addition to written entrance examinations, they are also given practical tests during a comprehensive interview prior to being accepted for employment. Once employed, they are encouraged to attend Service Schools and manufacturer's courses of instructions. During the biennium maintenance technicians attendance at these schools totalled 21 man months.

Safety has continued to receive emphasis in all maintenance activities. Total time lost, during the biennium, due to accidents was 72 hours, or .0001% of total man hours available.

In addition to the repair work performed at the Combined Field Maintenance Shop, it has been found economical to maintain a high level of maintenance through the use of visiting teams to Organizational Maintenance Shops and individual units on both a "scheduled" and "as required" basis. During the biennium, 2,140 man days of travel were expended in these technical assistance, inspection, or repair of equipment visits.

During the Berlin crisis, late in 1960, five units of the Florida Army National Guard were ordered to Federal active duty. These units moved to active duty stations with weapons, radios, vehicles, clothing, and other required property, all in an excellent combat ready condition.

Recapitulation of Federal support of the Army National Guard, maintenance activities, and designation of Organization Maintenance Shops will be found in Appendices XXII, XXIII and XXIV.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD

During the biennium, the 125th Materiel Squadron (Air Defense) was organized and assigned to the 125th Fighter Group.

(For current organizational structure of the Florida Air National Guard, see Appendix VII.)

AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE

The Florida National Guard Airbase, located at Imeson Airport in Jacksonville, has added approximately $500,000.00 worth of additional facilities during this biennium. The facilities, constructed entirely with Federal funds, are: Engine Shop, Alert Hangar, Supply and Equipment Shed, Weapons Calibration Shelter, Ammo Maintenance Shop, and Electrical Distribution System. Scheduled for completion early in 1963 is a 1,000 foot runway extension which will have aircraft arresting barriers at both ends.

GENERAL

The years 1961-1962 have been devoted primarily to attaining the maximum proficiency of every individual in the Florida Air National Guard. The mission, both State and Federal, has remained unchanged.

Manning has been restrictive in order for the Air National Guard of the United States not to exceed its strength limitations set by the Congress of the United States. This causes a unit to remain at approximately 80% of strength, and consequently we have had to turn many applicants away from the Air National Guard of Florida. The Florida Air National Guard could be at 100% if sufficient training spaces were available.

Retraining of all personnel to cope with the F-102A aircraft assigned just prior to the last report has been accomplished, and the 24 hour alert commitment for the Air Defense Command continues to be carried out in an excellent manner.

The Florida Air National Guard was selected by the National Guard Bureau to participate in "Operation Silk-Hat." This exercise was held at Tyndall Air Force Base and was a display of Air Force capability for the President of the United States. The team members and the unit were recipients of a commendation letter from the President of the United States, Chief of Staff, United States Air Force, and the Commanding General, Air Defense Command.

The years 1961-1962 have been the second and third respectively under the Air Defense Command for operational control. The organization and abilities of the Air National Guard were not fully appreciated nor understood by the Air Defense Command. The misunderstandings are being overcome and will result in even better utilization of operational capability.

The Air National Guard of Florida expended $4,648,506.00 during Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962 in the State of Florida.

OBJECTIVES

The objectives of the training program are to attain and maintain the high degree of operational readiness consistent with successful performance of the Air Defense Command mission.

SCHOOL TRAINING

All non-prior service airmen are required to attend United States Air Force Basic Military Training subsequent to enlistment. When technical school spaces are available, the enlistee must agree to attend Phase I, Basic Military Training, and also the technical training. However, the school training program of the Florida Air National Guard has been hampered this biennium due to an insufficient number of training spaces allocated by the National Guard Bureau. During calendar year 1962, Air National Guard units being released from extended active duty incident to the Berlin Crisis were priority on the available training spaces since they were forecasting heavy losses in personnel. Shortage of training spaces is a problem that we will have to live with until Congress appropriates sufficient funds. One bright spot in the school program is an increase in pilot training spaces. Pay and allowances for Air Guardsmen attending Service Schools amounted to $57,926.00 during Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962.

UNIT TRAINING

Unit training is conducted in accordance with training directives and regulations published by the National Guard Bureau, Headquarters United States Air Force, and Air Defense Command, and consists primarily of on-the-job training. The OJT program in 1961 was considered satisfactory with an overall proficiency test passing rate of 62%. However, the annual IG inspection pointed out some areas of needed improvement. A program was initiated to improve all areas of training. With this renewed emphasis and the advent of year-round field training, the passing rate on proficiency tests for 1962 is in excess of 80%, which is considered outstanding.

In an effort to further improve the quality of training for personnel of the unit, an instructor was obtained from the Air Training Command to instruct key training personnel in the mechanics of OJT. Fifteen supervisors attended the 5-day OJT Administrator-Supervisor Course, twenty-five personnel attended the 3-day OJT Trainers Course, and twelve commanders and staff officers attended a one day Staff Officers Orientation Course. It is felt that the Florida Air National Guard will benefit for many years to come from the knowledge and understanding of OJT gained during these classes.

In a subsequent letter from the instructor to the Air Force Senior Adviser, he stated that he felt the OJT program of this unit would compare favorably with any Air Force unit, active or reserve.

Extension courses continue to be utilized as a valuable part of the unit's training program. While these courses cannot be used as authoritative references, they do contain valuable information drawn from several references that assist in teaching the individual trainee in his specialty. In 1961, 249 individuals applied for extension courses and 205 made application in 1962.

Unit training assembly payrolls were $578,346.00 for Fiscal Years 1961 and 1962.

FIELD TRAINING 1961

Field training for 1961 was conducted during the period 11 through 25 June 1961 at the unit's home station at Imeson Airport, Jacksonville, Florida in accordance with Air Defense Command's current "in place" training concept.

This policy proved to be very effective for this unit in that many sections were able to utilize their men in the accomplishment of tasks and projects which will improve the overall effectiveness of this group in future operations. Particularly noteworthy are the accomplishments of the Air Installations sections. Many major repair, preventive maintenance, construction and installation projects were performed by personnel of these sections at tremendous savings to the State and Federal governments in service contracts. In all, over 80 work projects were completed by the installations element including installation and repair of air conditioning systems, repair of mess hall and dispensary equipment, installation and repair of plumbing and electrical facilities, construction and installation of runway distance markers and other signs, painting, concrete slab construction and many other projects.

For aircraft maintenance personnel most training was accomplished in the form of actual on-the-job training. The anticipated maintenance workload did not materialize during the first week of field training due to inclement weather. This resulted in an increased workload for these personnel during the second week when flying activity was doubled in an effort to meet flying objectives. During inclement weather and periods of reduced maintenance requirements, formal classroom training was conducted on organizational and field maintenance practices and management procedures. Several new Air Force films on this and related subjects were shown to all maintenance personnel.

An AOCF (Aircraft out of commission for parts) rate of less than 2% attests to the excellent precamp planning of base supply personnel and the effectiveness of coordination between maintenance and supply activities. The majority of all supply functions was accomplished by part-time personnel under close supervision of air technicians.

The Small Arms Marksmanship Program, although severely hampered by adverse weather during the field training period, managed to afford 50% participation. A continuing program is in effect to qualify all personnel.

Arrangements were made by the Base Motor Pool Supervisor to send 12 of his personnel to the General Motors Delco Remy Division school for one week of professional classroom training on automotive carburetion and ignition systems. This training was conducted at the Delco Remy School in Jacksonville, Florida at no expense to the government.

The quality of meals served was excellent by all standards and superior to those served during previous encampments. The one individual factor which probably attributed most to the excellence of meals served is the modern well equipped kitchen at this station.

Attendance during this field training period surpassed all previous records. One hundred percent of all officers and 97% of all airmen were either physically or constructively present.

This unit received its new Unit Manning Document on 15 May 1961 with an effective implementation date of 1 June 1961. Since this new Unit Manning Document included a new (Materiel) squadron, many personnel had to be transferred. This action was completed just prior to the beginning of field training and was done without serious consequence. In addition, many new subsections were added to the office of Director of Materiel. The best qualified personnel were assigned to these positions and all of these subsections are now functioning smoothly.

The various teams required by the Group Disaster Control Plan were organized and instructed in their duties. Two practice alerts of the DECUF (Defense Conditions Under Fallout) annex were held. These alerts pointed out several weak areas which necessitated corrective action. Overall, personnel reactions to the alerts were considered very satisfactory. Films on atomic and hydrogen bombs and their effects were procured from local Civil Defense officials and the Air Force Film Library. Radiac detection instruments were also borrowed from local Civil Defense officials for training purposes.

Films on Communism and the Communist threat were available and shown by most sections during the field training period. A complete annual records check was accomplished on each individual by the Group Personnel Section.

Field training payrolls for 1961 amounted to $124,224.00.

FIELD TRAINING 1962

The so-called "Texas Plan" for field training was implemented during fiscal year 1962. This plan provides for personnel to be called out in small increments during special exercises, peak work loads, etc. throughout the year. This is beneficial to the unit in that additional manpower is available when most needed. It aids the individual in that he has a choice in time that he will attend field training, and also in that he can be given more individual attention in his training. A local requirement was established that each individual in a training status would receive four hours of classroom training each day in addition to supervised on-the-job training.

Approximately 98% of unit personnel attended field training under this plan. Personnel were almost unanimous in their approval of this training concept. Reasons given by most personnel for their high endorsement of the plan were:

- a. The high caliber of training received due to a low trainer-trainee ratio; and

- b. The improved employer-employee relationship resulting from personnel being able to select the period of attendance.

A majority of the Air Police trainees, Medical trainees and Statistical Service trainees devoted a part or all of their fiscal year 1962 field training periods to training at near-by service installations. The Air Police spent two weeks at Orlando Air Force Base attached to the Air Provost Marshal's office; the Medical personnel were at MacDill Air Force Base attached to the United States Air Force Hospital; and the Statistical Service trainees received familiarization training with some items of IBM equipment through the cooperation of the local IBM branch office.

Training for Food Service personnel consisted of classroom training supplemented by several field trips. Field trips included visits to a local meat packing plant, a local dairy, Jacksonville Naval Air Station Hospital food facility, and the Jacksonville Naval Air Station Exchange food preparation facility. These trips contributed greatly to the morale of food service personnel as well as adding to the quality of their training program.

Field training payrolls for 1962 amounted to $130,096.00.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS ASSOCIATION OF FLORIDA

The National Guard Officers Association of Florida has been in existence since 1902. It consists of all officers and warrant officers of the Florida Army and Air National Guard. The organization is run upon a democratic basis, with the officers being elected by the membership. Committee meetings are held from time to time throughout the year, and a general conference is convened annually at some location within the State. The purpose of the organization is the discussion and promulgation of legislation, both State and National; the advancement of the professional status of the National Guard; and for the widening of acquaintance among the officers and wives of the various commands in the State. The annual conferences consist of business sessions during the day with the social functions in the evening.

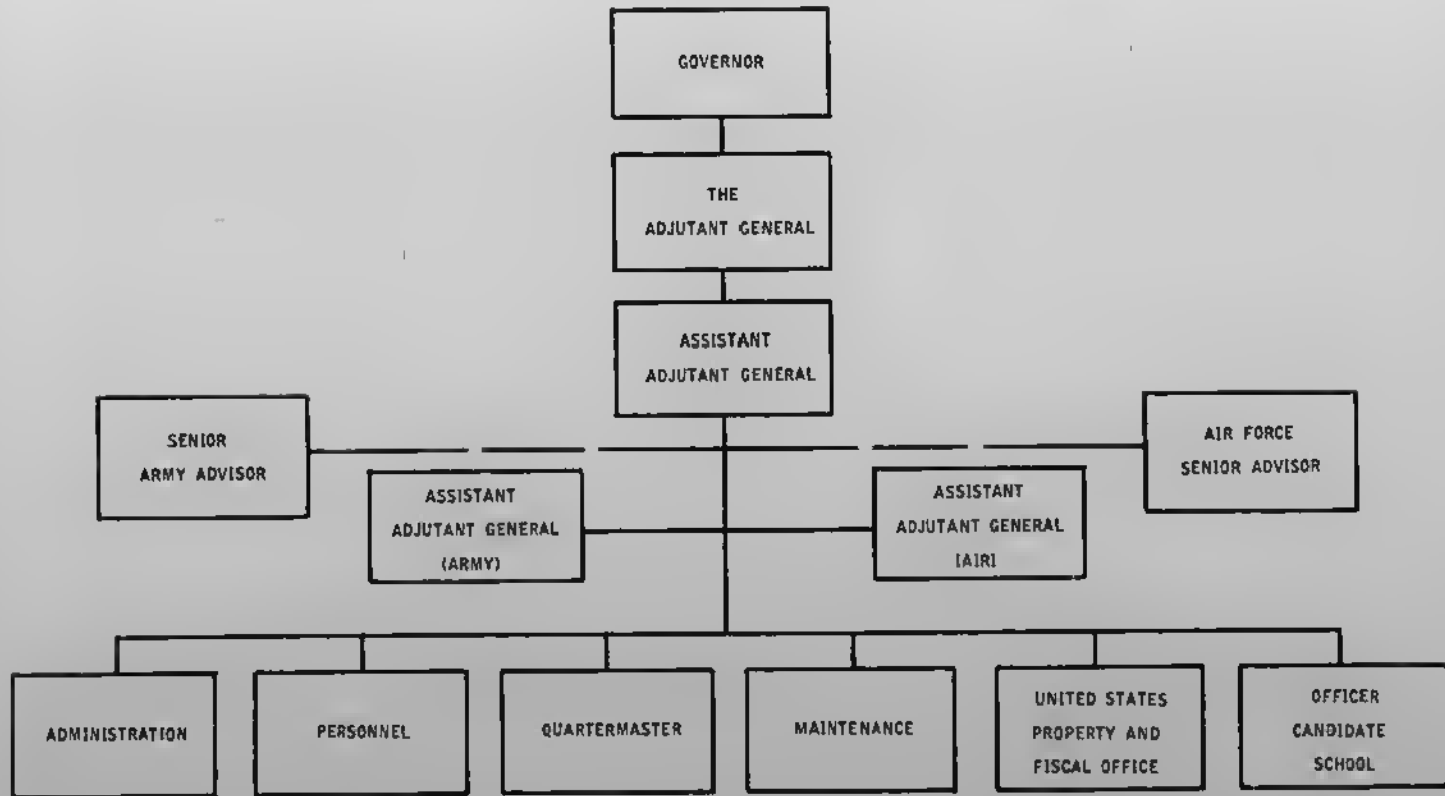

This Association has 100% membership of all active National Guard Officers. Even though the members attend the annual conference at their own expense, 465 were present at the last conference. During this biennium, the 59th Annual Conference was held at the Everglades Hotel, in Miami, and the 60th Annual Conference was held at the Hotel Robert Meyer, in Jacksonville. (See Appendix XXV).

I am the Guard

Civilian in Peace, Soldier in War... of security and honor, for three centuries I have been the custodian, I am the Guard.

I was with Washington in the dim forests, fought the wily warrior, and watched the dark night bow to the morning. At Concord's bridge, I fired the fateful shot heard 'round the world. I bled on Bunker Hill. My footprints marked the snows at Valley Forge. I pulled a muffled oar on the barge that bridged the icy Delaware. I stood with Washington on the sun-drenched heights of Yorktown. I saw the sword surrendered... I am the Guard. I pulled the trigger that loosed the long rifle's havoc at New Orleans. These things I knew—I was there! I saw both sides of the War between the States—I was there! The hill at San Juan felt the fury of my charge. The far plains and mountains of the Philippines echoed to my shout... On the Mexican border I stood... I am the Guard. The dark forest of the Argonne blazed with my borrague. Chateau Thierry crumbled to my cannonade. Under the arches of victory I marched in legion—I was there! I am the Guard. I bowed briefly on the grim Corregidor, then saw the light of liberation shine on the faces of my comrades. Through the jungle and on the beaches, I fought the enemy, beat, battered and broke him. I raised our banner to the serene air on Okinawa—I scrambled over Normandy's beaches—I was there!... I am the Guard. Across the 38th Parallel I made my stand. I flew MIG Alley—I was there!... I am the Guard.

Soldier in war, civilian in peace... I am the Guard.

I was at Johnstown, where the raging waters boomed down the valley. I cradled the crying child in my arms and saw the terror leave her eyes. I moved through smoke and flame at Texas City. The stricken knew the comfort of my skill. I dropped the food that fed the starving beast on the frozen fields of the west and through the towering drifts I ploughed to rescue the marooned. I have faced forward to the tornado, the typhoon, and the horror of the hurricane and flood—these things I know—I was there!... I am the Guard. I have brought a more abundant, a fuller, a finer life to our youth. Wherever a strong arm and valiant spirit must defend the Nation, in peace or war, wherever a child cries, or a woman weeps in time of disaster, there I stand... I am the Guard. For three centuries a soldier in war, a civilian in peace—of security and honor, I am the custodian, now and forever... I am the Guard.
